ANOTHER NEW HOTEL.—We learn that Mr. Bearman, proprietor of the American Hotel, has purchased a piece of ground opposite the H. & L. E. R. Station, on which he intends building a commodious Hotel for the accomodation of the passengers who use the new railroad. The edifice will be of brick, five storeys high, with all the latest improvements and fixtures now found in a first-class house. The site for the new Hotel is all that could be desired, and the prospect of a good run of business is very encouraging. An eastern Hotel has long been felt wanting in this city.

I see what you want; you have had no breakfast this morning," so, putting his hand into his pocket, he took out a penny. "There, you know what to do with that, I think." The dog took the penny into his mouth, and ran off to the pastry-cook's close by, and presently came back with a plum-cake in his mouth. The old gentleman asked the favor to look at it. "Ah! I see, it's all right, you may venture to eat it," and he gave it to him again. The dog then eat it up in no time, and quickly ran off home, showing his love and gratitude by shaking his tail more vigorously than ever. This interesting friendship between the old veteran and the dog lasted till the former was obliged to leave the place and reside at a neighboring town, where he finished his more than fourscore years.

condition that that desire should be complied with. Had it not been to secure the appointment of a representative of the Irish Roman Catholics, there would have been no vacancy in the Senate at that time; so that the position of the gentlemen who had the first claims on the office were not at all prejudiced by the arrangement. That is not so in this case. A vacancy has occurred in the natural course of events; and there are two gentlemen who were members of the old Legislative Council, to one or other of whom the appointment should have been given, one of them being the Hon. H. B. Bull of Hamilton. But disregarding his plighted word, disregarding his basis of union will be prepared for submission to the various lodges of the Templars throughout the country. The British Templars are very strong in the Eastern Provinces, while the strength of the British American Order is confined to Ontario. A union of the two would have the effect of greatly augmenting their usefulness.

H. & L. E. R.—The Hamilton and Lake Erie Company are industriously pushing their road through from the new freight shed to the lake. The large gully running north, past Forbes's ash factory is already partly filled up with earth, upon which the track will be laid, and a temporary bridge put up across it on Barton street for the purpose of cutting a channel underneath it. A substantial railway bridge will be constructed by the side of this temporary one as soon as the channel is dug through. An extensive mound above Barton street has been trenched through, and is almost ready for the rails.

THE annual meeting of the Home of the Friendless will be held in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association at half-past three o'clock to-morrow (Tuesday) afternoon. All friends of the cause are earnestly requested to attend.

RUNAWAY.—Yesterday on the Dundas road a horse ran away with a buggy containing two ladies and a gentleman from Dundas. The buggy was damaged but none of the occupants hurt. We failed to ascertain the names of the parties.

Caesar crossed the ... because on the opposite bank he saw a man with a fine figure. His nephew felt confident of winning the battle of Actium, because he met a peasant of the name of Nicolaus mounted on an ass. Wolsey was warned of his doom by a crosser-head; Selannus, by a fight of crows. Dr. Johnson objected to going under a ladder. Montaigne avoided giving his left foot priority in putting on his stockings. Alexander was believed to have untied the Gordian knot with a slice of his sword. For good luck's sake, Augustus wore some portion of a sea-calf; Charlemagne, some trinket of unknown value. Mahommed was all fate; Bonaparte all stars and destiny. Cromwell believed in September 3, and Louis Napoleon in December 2. Sulla called himself Felix, the favored child of fortune, and Timoleon turned his house into a Temple of Chance. Alexander, if we may credit the account given by Quintus Curtius, was terrified by blood flowing from inside his soldiers' bread during the siege of Tyre in 332 B.C. His seer, Aristander, foresaw in this crimson efflux of the vital stream out of the commissariat a happy issue for the Macedonians; and the warriors, thus nerved, took Tyre.

No doubt there was a deal of imposture in alchemy; no doubt, too, the wish for gold was father to the thought of alchemy; but this in itself will not account for Henry IV. prohibiting alchemy, for God-fearing Henry VI. eagerly encouraging it; for Pope John XXII. being an alchemist; for Louis XIII. of France making a Franciscan monk his grand almoner, as the reward of a hundred year's reign promised to his credulity by that pretender to the discovery of the grand elixir; or for Jean de Lisle expiating by an early death in the Bastille his bold attempts to persuade Louis XIV. and his Ministers that he possessed the gold making stone. Among the wide circle of influential believers that alchemy thus entranced were Roger Bacon, Albertus Magnus, and St. Thomas Aquinas, and even the transcendent intellects of Leibnitz, Spinoza, and Verulam. However, in the pursuit of this phantom, Roger Bacon casually stumbled on the composition of gunpowder; Geber, on the properties of acids; Van Helmont on the nature of gas, geist or spirit; and Dr. Glauber, of Amsterdam, on the use of the salt which bears his name.

Luther and Verulam believed in witches. In his folio Dictionary, Johnson defines a witch, "A woman given to unlawful arts." Knighton tells us of persons taxed with keeping devils in the shape of cats. And wise and learned Roman Catholics believe even greater wonders still. For example, Spain, among many images of the Virgin, possesses one at Saragossa which used to restore lost legs; whilst Austria boasts an image of the Virgin which secures good harvests.—Chambers Journal.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A special dispatch to the Times from Cartagena says that the Contreras and Majority members of the Junta are on board the insurgent fleet which was seen off Alicante. The fleet did not stop at the latter port, but proceeded northward. The opinion at Cartagena is that it is attempting to escape to some place on the coast of Africa, but Contreras gave out that he was going in search of the Government squadron. The report of the sinking of the frigate Fernand el Catolico is confirmed. It is believed that all on board were lost although it was reported at first that many took to the boats. The sailors of the British squadron have been searching the waters where the frigate went down and have recovered five bodies.

UNITED STATES.

St. Louis, Oct. 19.—The Commission of United States engineers appointed to examine the St. Louis bridge have completed their report. They find the bridge as at present designed will prove a very serious obstruction to navigation, and as it is impracticable to change the plans of the bridge or raise it except at an enormous expense, they recommend a canal or open cut behind the eastern abutment of the bridge, with a draw over it. They also recommend that arch trusses like those of this bridge be in future prohibited in plans for bridges over navigable streams.
