Alex. Hutchinson, a young man who said he was from Hamilton, was charged by Constable Logan, of the G. W. R., with trespass. A fine of $2 was imposed.

Mr. T. N. Molesworth, Government Engineer, is in the city. This afternoon he took a trip to the Asylum for the purpose of inspecting the works now in progress at that institution.

A deputation from the Hamilton City Council, headed by Mayor Kilvert, arrived here today to inspect the system pursued at the Lunatic Asylum for the disposal of sewage by filtration. The party were received by Mayor Lewis, of this city, and several Aldermen, and entertained at the Club, after which they proceeded to investigate the sewage question.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Mr. Sandford Fleming's Report.

By Telegraph to the SPECTATOR.

OTTAWA, April 30.—Mr. Fleming's report as to the terminus of the Pacific Railway has just been presented. It winds up stating:—"After weighing every consideration I am forced to the conclusion that if a decision cannot be postponed until further examinations can be made, and if the construction of the railway must be at once proceeded with, the line to Vancouver Island should be rejected, and that the Government should select the route by the Rivers Thomson and Fraser to Burrard Inlet."

FACTION IN MONTREAL.

Alarming State of Affairs.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, April 31.

The SPEAKER took the chair at 2 p. m.

A CHARGE REPUTED.

After prayers and routine, Sir JOHN MACDONALD referred to the statement that on a certain occasion he had been attended at a political meeting by Mr. Moylan, a Government official. He had stated at the time that he presumed Mr. Moylan was on the business of his department. He (Sir John) had forgotten the circumstances but he had since learned that Mr. Moylan was not in the public service, but was attending as a journalist.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply. On the item for culling lumber, $77,765, Mr. WHITE (Benfrew) said that the cost was too much.

Mr. CARRIER objected to the system in practice at Quebec. He said that if the cullers had to cut over the logs and break up the raft the expense could not but be most oppressive, which was the case at present.

Mr. MITCHELL was annoyed at the long suffering of the people of the Ottawa district. It appeared to him that the culling at the present time was not to ascertain the soundness of the lumber, but to obtain a revenue for the Government and give employment to a few of their friends. In his own Province, at one establishment, the proprietor had his own surveyor, who stamped his 120,000,000 feet of deals, which were accepted upon the reputation of the firm itself without any of the expensive machinery of the Government cullers, which was a tax of $70,000 odd in this industry. He advised the juvenile member of the Cabinet, the Minister of Inland Revenue, to study a little more the requirements and wishes of the country, the requirements and wishes of the people.

Last evening there was a fair after-noon concert at the Mechanics' Hall on the occasion of the departure of Mrs. Keltie. The opera-house was pretty well filled, although the balcony was nearly empty and the parquet crowded. The entertainment opened to dictate the best method of teaching. Each one has his own, and that is the best which proves most beneficial to the class. English Literature receives more attention now than ever before, and it is now not so difficult to teach the subject in a scientific manner. As a means of training the reasoning power literature is the very best. The object of study is to train our thoughts and language to the embodiment of thought. In order to fully bring out this subject it requires attention and method. Some general plan must be arrived at which will produce habits of thought and reasoning. The primary object of reading is to understand written language as well as spoken. Spoken language we learn intuitively, and we should be as familiar with written as with spoken language. Our business is with the fourth and fifth books, the more advanced ones of the series, in which the scope is more varied and a wider range of thought is presented than in the others. The great object of any lesson is to ascertain the meaning of the author. To understand the meaning of a piece we must know the meaning of every word in it. We must also consider reading as a vocal art, and in order to do this, we must read aloud. The chief object of both teacher and pupil is to understand the meaning of each word that is being taught. Most people are too hasty in jumping at conclusions as to the meaning of the words they hear. The best way of learning words is to associate the word with the object, but this is, of course, not always practicable. One way of learning a meaning by defining it, another is to use synonymous or similar expression. The first principle is also liable to abuse, as we resort to a dictionary to find them. The habit of giving children a number of words to hunt up in a dictionary is very reprehensible, as a child prefers naturally the shortest meaning. Without reference to context, a good way is to write out all meanings of a word in the different senses which it is used. Another way to ascertain meaning is by derivation. It is not possible to do so to any extent in the IV book, but in the V book all derivations should be learned. A variety of exercises might be given to test the pupil's knowledge. For instance, give the literal meaning of a word, then the process by which it reaches its present meaning. Analysis itself, as a method of teaching grammar, is without an equal. It teaches the construction of the sentence in a way that can be acquired in no other manner. When we have gone through the lesson carefully analyzing each word, it is a good plan to take the words and epitomize it so as to give the gist of the matter in as few words as possible. In reading lessons we must take up the names and explain them; and the allusion to ancient customs, theories and thoughts—political or theological—must be attended to. Method should be introduced into all lessons; but if the method consists of introducing collateral information it is not its own object. The mind is imitative, and the pupils should be familiarized with the best authors, in order to write in the same way when they begin composition. The lessons well taught are much more valuable than a large amount of ready-made lessons gone over. Enlarging simple sentences by taking a simple sentence and adding descriptive words, then adding adverbial words, the attributive, is a good study for the beginning, and contracting sentences is also of value. Punctuation should also be taught as a part of composition. The meaning of each stop should be thoroughly explained and its use insisted upon. Spelling should be made interesting to the pupils, and followed them through every lesson. The order of spelling should be taught and applied on every possible occasion. The meaning of forming words may be taken up; many ways of making a word—by derivation, by affixes and prefixes, by changes, and many other methods.

Mr. Armstrong also adverted to the use of versification, and then referred to the questions asked in the "Notes on the Fourth Book," recently published, and his remarks on the reason and propriety of them. His remarks were received with the utmost attention, and will undoubtedly be productive of much good to those who read them.

Misses Cummings and Eager played "Poet and Peasant," in a manner which afforded much gratification to the auditors. At its conclusion, Mr. J. S. Smith announced that the dress given by Mr. T. C. L. Arms was open to discussion.

Mr. Moore moved that a vote of appreciation be offered Mr. Armstrong for the constructive lecture he had given. Mr. LIN seconded the motion and it was unanimously carried.

WANTING A NEW POST OFFICE.—A correspondent at St. Catharines says: A petition is circulating to-day requesting the Government to purchase the "Struthers Block" for the purpose of a post-office. The idea meets with general acceptance here, as the building is well situated and suited for the purpose and can be bought very cheap. Our P. O. accommodation is the poorest in the Province.

REV. DR. DOUGLAS reached the city last evening, and is the guest of the Rev. Hugh Johnston. He will preach in Wesley Church on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. The pastor will preach in the evening on that subject of so much anxiety and soliloquy knowledge, "The unpardonable sin; what it is, and whether it can be committed in our day."

THE HAMILTON AND NORTHWESTERN RAILWAY.—The prospects are that the above named road will be completed and trains running to the lake here, by the 10th of May. Fourteen car loads of iron were forwarded to Jarvis on Tuesday last, and a gang of some 25 men commenced to lay track on the same day. Had it not been that considerable earth has to be moved where it slid at the big cut, the road would have been completed in a few days.—Port Dover Independent.

LOOK AFTER THE BUSHES.—All who expect to have any fruit on their currant bushes must watch them closely at this season of the year. A few warm days after the late heavy rains will bring them out in full leaf, only to be destroyed by the caterpillars, unless the latter are at once killed off by using white hellebore. This can be purchased pure and at the lowest price from Messrs. Archdale Wilson & Co., druggists, James street, opposite the market. Call early.

LONDON WATER WORKS.—By the 8.55 train from the West Friday morning Mayor Lewis, Water Commissioner Minbinnick, Engineer Tracy and Secretary Danks, arrived from London. These gentlemen came for the purpose of inspection and taking note of the Hamilton Water Works. They were met at the station by Mayor Kilvert, Ald. Chisholm, Ald. Kerner, Ald. Carruthers, Ald. MacKenzie and Ald. Mason. They were most cordially received and were warmly welcomed to the Ambitious City of the West. From the station the party drove in cabs to the City of the Assizes. The Commissioners will publish an official list on or about the 15th of May. That is one point gained, for the Commissioners, through the Inspector, positively refused to have the list published, though it is fully completed, and though it was furnished to the press last year on the 18th of April. We presume that the Inspector good-naturedly hints to the dealers what their chances are, so that they will be able to unload their stocks if their doom is sealed. At any rate most of them have an idea about their fate, and by a laborious canvass of the city most of the changes and amendments to last year's list were found out. Apparently the Commissioners concluded, when they saw they could not keep the news from the Spectator, to step down from their dignified (?) position, but their official list will be rather stale reading when it comes.

The Times says that the last year's licenses do not expire till May 15th. Perhaps not. The statute says:

"And the said licenses shall be signed by the Treasurer of this Province, and dated as of the first day of May in each year, and shall thence continue in force for one year, and shall expire on the thirtieth day of April in the next ensuing year."

A succeeding section provides that licenses issued after the first of May shall be deemed to have been issued on the first day of May, and presumably they all expire together on the 30th of April. Hence, it appears that if the licenses for 1878 are not issued they ought to be, as there is no reason for the liquor dealers to be selling without license for fifteen days.

The following list will be found nearly, if not quite, correct:

THE BENEFIT CONCERT.

Last evening there was a fair attendance at Mechanics' Hall on the occasion of the benefit concert to Mrs. Keltie. The opera chairs were pretty well filled, although the gallery was nearly empty and the parquet was deserted. The entertainment opened with an overture by the Philharmonic Society, which was finely executed. Mr. Egan sang a descriptive song, entitled "The Baff," which was rendered with his usual spirit and power. Mrs. Keltie received an ovation, and gave her selection, "Angels' Serenade," with considerable taste. Mrs. Adamson's violin accompaniment lent a charm to the piece, however, and saved it from being commonplace. The effort was encored, and the lady responded with another song, "Romona," a selection

A NELSON farmer thinks there ought to be some hotel accommodation provided on the road from Nelson to Hamilton.

He patiently followed her all around the market, keeping a keen eye on her movements. Mary had no idea that the detective was on her track and in one unguarded moment slipped her quick hand into a lady's pocket and took out a purse. Before she could convey the article to her own dress, Detective Littlehales pounced upon her and took her to the station. Her astonishment was something indescribable, but was hardly more than that of the woman whom she had robbed, Mrs. Griffiths, of Cathcart street. At noon Mary was arraigned and pleaded "guilty." As she is suspected of stealing other purses sentence to analyze those processes which their genius enabled them to conduct without labour; to methodize those ways which to them are spontaneous, hoping to make it possible for others to profit by their genius, hoping to be able, by this means, to make common those arts which otherwise must be exclusive. He then referred to the self-made teacher; the one who, having the energy and courage to make a beginning, continually improves by experience, and succeeding in all he undertakes stands at last at the head of his profession. But the great majority, he thought, of self-taught artists and artisans never attain distinction, and never exhibit even a mediocrity of skill. As it requires from two to eight years of apprenticeship to learn any of the mechanical arts, it surely requires as long a period of training in the case of the teacher, in order to fully qualify him to operate skillfully upon the hearts and minds of the pupil, and besides, the materials upon which the teacher operates are richer in properties than the materials used in the manufactory. Mr. Dickson then briefly sketched the school system of the Province, describing each of the different grades in the system. First, the Public Schools; second, the High Schools; and lastly, the Universities, to unite and crown the educational system of the Province. To absolutely limit in any community the free school system of elementary instruction is to leave formidable obstacles in the path upwards of the classes whose misfortune it is to rear their children in the shade of poverty. If we are to have among us, as a people, a knowledge rising higher than the mere ability to read and write, to add and subtract, the process of reasoning that justifies the maintenance of free Public Schools is equally conclusive as to the support of High Schools and Universities. There is in education, as it approaches the domain of culture, as well as in its rudimentary stage, a contribution to the public welfare that makes it a proper subject of State aid and control. Each of these grades he regarded as supplementary to the others; the High Schools form the connecting link between the Public Schools and the Universities. If the capabilities of the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes were fully understood and properly recognized, he thought that it would be found that they would be able to do the entire work now done by the Normal Schools without in any way impairing the work they are now doing. The advantages which would arise from handing over the entire training of teachers to the Collegiate Institutes and High Schools he briefly stated:

1. Public School teachers would have a better appreciation of the High Schools, and the High School masters would understand better the true functions of both grades of schools.
2. It would utilize the High Schools to a greater extent, and the money now spent on the Normal Schools would place the County High Schools in a position to do for each county what these Normal Schools are now attempting to do for the whole Province.
3. It would make our system more symmetrical, and destroy the spirit of antagonism now existing between the Normal Schools and the larger High Schools.
4. It would place the High School on a better footing, and insure their permanent existence.

If all classes and professions were educated in the same school up to a certain point each would naturally understand and appreciate better the true functions and aims of the other. He further stated that there was not a subject now taught in the Normal Schools that was not as well taught in the Collegiate Institutes. He maintained that the Model Schools should not be entirely separated from the schools in which candidates receive their academic training; a close connection should be maintained to enable the student teacher to teach at least one class daily during the whole of the last session of his course; that he should teach under the guidance of faithful and competent critics, who should observe the process and expedient of teaching and governing employed by the student teacher, and instruct him how to improve them, or advise him to try other means and methods instead. "He then went on to state how students were trained in the Normal School, and gave it as his opinion that there was far too little of the "actual practice," of teaching, and that the Model School masters, instead of merely judging and estimating the value of the work of the students in training, should supervise the work and accompany it with proper criticism, advice and encouragement. He stated the conditions upon which the certificates of each grade are now granted, calling special attention to the general regulation

KICKED BY A HORSE.—Dennis McCarty, a retail merchant in the market, was kicked Saturday by a horse. The animal struck him on the knee-cap, inflicting an ugly wound.

QUITE A HELP.—The amount realized at the performance of the "Creation," in aid of the Band Competition Fund, was $182 55. That will assist greatly the object in view.

OMISSION.—The name of Sister Robertson, W. V. T., was inadvertently omitted in the list of officers of Corner stone Lodge in our last issue. The P. W. C., should have read Jas. D. Mills in place of John.

RETURNED SAFE.—Mr. T. H. McKenzie has just returned from South Africa, where he has been buying wool. His trip appears to have done him immense good. We congratulate him on his safe return from so long a voyage.

WASHAWAY.—On Saturday last a portion of the road on the Glencairn branch of the H. & N. W. Railway was washed away. Two cars of a passenger train were wrecked where the freshet had, done its work, but no one was hurt.

CHURCH PARADE.—Yesterday morning at eleven o'clock the 13th Battalion, headed by the band, marched to church at the Centenary. The Battalion looked splendid on the street and their appearance was much admired.

THE TEMPERATURE.—The following is the record of the temperature for the last 24 hours, as shown by Archdale Wilson & Co.'s thermometer at the Apothecaries' Hall:

A FORWARD SEASON.—Saturday morning a sister of Detective Rousseau arrived from her home, in Kaufman County, Texas, on a visit to her brother. She brought with her a basket of ripe strawberries, picked in her own garden, besides several heads of ripe wheat and other grains.

FIRE ALARM.—Saturday afternoon about three o'clock the fire alarm struck from box 19, corner of Barton and Mary streets. The Brigade got out in fair time, the hose-reels galloping furiously down King street east and then up Walnut towards the mountain, while the hook and ladder team were driven at a tremendous rate of speed up King street. They didn't find any fire and returned to the station. In the meantime the fire at Barton street was got under control.

QUICK WORK.—Saturday morning at 55 minutes past twelve a number of burglars made an attempt to enter Mr. Alexander McInnes' house in this city. Their movements were discovered whereupon Mr. McInnes sent an alarm to the Police Station through the District Telegraph. Four policemen were promptly despatched to the scene, but the burglars had taken themselves away evidently being informed of the approach of their natural enemies. They took nothing with them.

were as usual successful in their recitations. Mr. Geo. Henderson created considerable amusement by his comicalities. Messrs. Chapman and Morris displayed undoubted ability in their personations of Booth and Barrett. This sketch concluded the very lengthy programme. Mr. T. J. Bain, of Hamilton, was musical director.

MOUNTED POLICE.—At four o'clock yesterday morning Constable Fraser found a horse saddled and bridled tied to a wagon-wheel on Main street. The animal had been standing there since morning, and looked very miserable indeed. The constable untied him, but he was indignant at being taken in charge by a policeman, and bracing himself against the sidewalk refused to budge an inch. The old trick of sending for a cart would not work in this case, nor would the more modern invention of "swimming" the brute have any effect on him. Constable Fraser, who is a truly inventive genius, decided to mount the fiery indignant steed, and with the aid of a flour barrel scrambled into the saddle. This was the unkindest cut of all, and the horse felt it. He pranced round in a highly ridiculous manner, the policeman holding on by the mane. Detective Rousseau appeared on the scene, and by twisting the animal's tail induced him to proceed along the street. He was finally put in a stall at Mr. Owen Nowlan's stables, where the hungry brute was fed with some hay and oats. He belongs to a party in Stoney Creek, who had brought him in for sale on Saturday. The effort to sell him, together with wood market whiskey, laid him out, hence the consequences chronicled above.

WENTWORTH TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

SATURDAY, May 4.

The morning session was opened by prayer, delivered by Mr. McCartney, after which the President, Mr. J. H. Smith, made a short address, and then called upon

Mr. A. S. CHRISTIANSEN to speak about music. He delivered a very instructive lecture, and was heard with great attention. The term music was formerly applied to any art over which the muses presided. It now means any succession of agreeable sounds produced either by voice or instrument. Music treats of particular classes of sounds. In teaching music, explain to the class the nature of a musical sound. When the vibrations are irregular the sound is merely a noise. But if the vibrations are continuous the sound is a tone, and that is music. He here made a number of experiments with a string to show the variety of sounds. There are two kinds of instruments, reed instruments and wind instruments. The throat is one of the finest and most beautiful of instruments, and belongs to the reed class, and it is astonishing to observe how many tones can be produced in so short a space as the human throat. If you commence to sing a low sound and run up the scale, and put your finger at the Adam's apple you will feel it gradually rise above the finger. If we take a tone and explain its properties, we find it may be a long or a short one, and that is rhythm. It may be low or high, that is power, and it may be loud or soft, which is pitch. What we hear, but cannot see, is a tone; and what we see, and cannot hear, is a note, and it is immaterial which we call it

Tuesday at noon the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Hamilton & Northwestern Railway was held at the Company's office. The following gentlemen were present:—Messrs. E. Gurney, Wm. Hendrie, R. R. Waddell, W. H. Glasco, James Hooles, M. Leggat, P. W. Daycott, Thomas McPherson, A. Bruce, Alex. Turner, John Winer, C. Campbell, and W. Pilgrim.

The President, Mr. John Stuart, being absent in England, the chair was taken by Mr. Gurney, Vice-President.

The Secretary read the notice convening the meeting, also the minutes of the last annual meeting and two special meetings of the shareholders held during the year, which were confirmed.

The Chairman stated that in consequence of the absence of the President, it was not intended to submit the usual annual report at this meeting, but to adjourn for that purpose after the election of Directors.

The following gentlemen were unanimously elected Directors for the ensuing year: John Stuart, Wm. Hendrie, John Proctor, James Turner, E. Gurney, Wm. Copp, P. W. Dayfoot, M. Leggat—leaving one vacancy.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. John Stuart was elected President, and Mr. E. Gurney, Vice-President.

HAMILTON CATHOLIC LITURGICAL ASSOCIATION.

Another of those pleasant reunions of the above association took place last evening in their spacious hall on James street. The attendance was very good. Mr. D. Smith occupied the chair.

The programme, which was entirely carried out by members, commenced with the glee club singing in an efficient manner the glee, "The Artillerist's Oath." A recitation by Mr. Morin entitled "The Bells of Shandon," was very good, considering that it was the gentleman's first appearance. Mr. J. F. Egan sang in his usual good style the feeling song of "The Sexton," and received a hearty encore, when he responded with his old favorite, "Simon, the Cellarer," and the imitable manner in which he renders this song again gained him the Theological war over. Nevertheless notwithstanding if thou James Brown, atheistically dare now reply hereto—hereafter address Me by the dropping of the letter in the Galt post office.

He closes his epistle by stating that the John Brown's "graciously felicitous sure exit shall be into immutably eternally immortal glory in the year 1880." His next movement is anxiously awaited. Galt would not survive a lecture from him.

THE ODDFELLOWS' CONCERT.

One of the most successful concerts given in the Town Hall this year came off on Thursday evening last, under the auspices of the Oddfellows' silver cornet band. The result will be very gratifying to the band, which is one of the institutions of Galt, and deserves the hearty support of the townspeople. The leading singer at the concert was Miss Maggie Barr, the song queen of Hamilton, as the Scottish American calls her. To say that her reception was hearty does not express it fully—it was enthusiastic. One thing that may have had some weight is the fact that Miss Barr has a Galt lassie, having been brought up here, if I mistake not. So everybody was glad to see her and proud of her, and her sweet singing and personal grace won everybody. Some of her selections were repeatedly encored. The other singers who took part were: Frol. Jones, of Toronto, formerly of Galt, Mr. A. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brown, Miss B. Patrick and Galt's funnyist, Mr. J. W. Ward. Besides these there was an excellent orchestra and musical selections by the band.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE.

A public meeting will be held in the Town Hall to-morrow (Wednesday) evening for the purpose of forming a branch of the National Policy League. Messrs. W. H. Frazer and A. W. Wright will address the meeting on behalf of the movement, and other gentlemen will be present. Discussion is invited. No doubt there will be a large attendance.

MR. MENTON.

The Foresters of Galt have taken in hand the proper celebration of the Queen's birthday on the 24th inst., and judging from the large posters issued Galt is to have a lively time of it on that day. It is expected that large numbers of Foresters from Toronto and other places will be present. The day will be passed in witnessing races, sports, etc., and a grand store and post office $300 each and 1 store at $500, rent payable quarterly. The property will be sold subject to the said leases and tenancies.

The property secondly above described is lease-hold, being held under a lease for 20 years, from the 3rd February, 1877, subject to an annual rental of $25. On it are erected the brick stables in connection with the hotel. The Warwick Block is one of the best business blocks in Stratford.
The Albion Hotel, composed of part of the said block as above described, is the leading hotel in the town and the principal stopping place for commercial men west of Toronto, and the present lease has enjoyed a large business. Stratford is improving very rapidly, and from the fact of its having a great railway centre, this sale affords a splendid opportunity for capitalists and others to secure a very valuable and productive investment.
The purchaser shall at the time of sale pay $100 of his purchase money to the vendors or their solicitors or agents, balance within 30 days,

ARRIVAL BRIDGE DOVER
H.S. 27 May 1878

"He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Esaias." The sermon was one of marvellous power, and the burning words of the preacher were listened to with rapt attention by one of the largest congregations ever seen in this church.

PORT DOVER.—Friday the first passenger train on the H. & N. W. Railway reached Port Dover. On board was the Secretary of the Company, Mr. Maitland Young, accompanied by Messrs. Joseph Rooke, Reeve, Wm. Kerr, Deputy Reeve, and Walter Hunter, Treasurer, all of the township of Collingwood; James Farewell, Union and Standard, and Dr. L. M. Moore, of Thornbury; James Irwin and Thos. Badger, Ravenna; John McGirr, Collingwood, and others. The party were met by Mr. Peter Lawson and conducted to the North American Hotel, where they were met by the Reeve, Mr. T. L. Gillies, and other citizens of Port Dover. After toasting "The Queen," "The Municipality of the Township of Collingwood," "Success to the Hamilton and North-western Railway," "The Township of Woodhouse," etc., their time being up, the party proceeded to the train, and as they moved off three cheers were given and returned.

He was chased by another locomotive, but escaped in safety. The next evening he was attacked by a number of men, and in the melee his leg was broken. After several months he came to this city and was then on crutches, but about five weeks ago discarded them. He is a strongly built man, and our readers will probably be reminded of him as a person who walked with a slight limp, carrying a cane, and wearing a plug hat and heavy chin whiskers.

We are informed on good authority that over $100,000 had been offered for Collier and refused. Several wealthy gentlemen in Hamilton and Toronto presented themselves for this purpose.

REGIMENTAL ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS, 13TH BATT., A. M.,
HAMILTON, May 22, 1878.

No. 21.—Referring to Regimental Order No. 17 of 12th inst., the left half battalion, i. e., Nos. 4, 5 and 6 companies will parade for drill weekly on Thursday instead of Wednesday evening, as announced in that order. The right half battalion, Nos. 1, 2 and 3 companies, on Tuesday evenings.

22.—It is notified for general information that as there will be no camps of exercise this year, the annual drill of this regiment will be put in at local headquarters. The Officers Commanding therefore hope that all officers, non-commissioned officers and men will avail themselves of every opportunity afforded by company and battalion drill for perfecting themselves in their duties as soldiers.

23.—Shoulder belts and pouches will be worn only at full dress regimental parades, and not at company drills.

By order,

ALEX. H. MOORE,
Major and Act. Adjt.
